You shop in Frisco, you buy in Frisco, now Invest Local in Frisco.

The Frisco Chamber of Commerce is taking the lead in tackling one of the most challenging hurdles for local entrepreneurs – the access to capital.

The Frisco Chamber of Commerce is helping connect local entrepreneurs with local investors. On Wednesday, December 14, 2016, the Frisco Chamber of Commerce will be hosting back-to-back Invest Local events. The first event will be hosted in the Frisco Chamber of Commerce Event Room at 3:00 PM. This session will be for local entrepreneurs seeking access to capital ranging from micro-loans to private equity. Immediately following, the Frisco Chamber will be hosting an exclusive and limited invitation-only session at @Nerdvana.food+spirits at 6:00 PM. This closed session event will allow residents, with the capacity to invest, the opportunity to discuss the risks, rewards, impact and mechanics of putting some of their own capital to work by investing in local residents who have ideas or businesses.

The Frisco Chamber of Commerce has always been at the center of creating opportunities for local businesses to grow and thrive by being the “voice of business” and providing the best resources and connections for its members and all Frisco residents. “Frisco is growing rapidly and there is room to support both locally owned businesses and corporate owned businesses that are not based in Frisco. The Chamber is committed to continuing to expand and enhance its role of fostering and supporting our local entrepreneurs who are running and creating businesses,” says Tony Felker, Frisco Chamber of Commerce President/CEO “We understand to do that we must take action and a leadership role in becoming the connection point for all things entrepreneurial in Frisco. We are very excited about our actions and plans to take that leadership role in the community; these two events are just the first steps of many in the Chamber becoming the epicenter for Frisco Entrepreneurs.”

Jason Adams, a DFW entrepreneur, co-founder of Invest Local LLC, and a partner of Day One Consulting Inc., will be the keynote speaker at both events. “Entrepreneurism is local. Whether the business or idea is small or enterprising, the entrepreneur has a community they call home. Now, more than ever, local residents can find creative and meaningful ways to invest with local businesses and ideas that will impact their community. The key is making it easier for entrepreneurs and local investing residents to connect and providing both of them knowledge on all the ways to play together,” says Jason Adams. The events will discuss creative ways of investing locally from micro-loans to private equity and everything in between.

The Chamber is inviting all local entrepreneurs and local residents with a desire to invest locally to visit the Frisco Chamber of Commerce online to RSVP for the Frisco Chamber of Commerce Invest Local event(s) on December 14, 2016 at FriscoChamber.com.
